

Time Capsule – Year 2100!

Your school has decided to dedicate a time capsule to the class of 2100. Your principal asked you to provide a news article that you feel is both informative about today and can be helpful to kids in the future.

Find a story from today's news that you think would be important for students to read and learn from in the future.

-  Find a news story you feel is interesting or note-worthy to students today and will be valuable to students in the future.

-  Write a formal, introductory letter to the future students opening the time capsule about why you feel your chosen article is important for them to read. In addition, tell why this article is important to students today. Your letter should include at least three well developed paragraphs.

-  Don't forget to attach a link to the article you read/chose.
